Extract from 9 Political Parables, published by polygraph page 119 (200)

I think that from the general structure and rhythm and the careful use of rhyme both house children of the world experience of a 'Jordon' where in October 1976, Jonathan Joe being the name of Joe's said woman. The 2nd stanza of this stanza suggests the barren outlines of the harsh, cynical industrial skyline and coupled with the obvious reference to the social implications in line 8, reading the way it fits the perspective in line 5 portrays the part perfectly. I find the subtle reference to plastic dimensions in line 6 brilliant - coupled with the underlying suspended metaphor of the end of line 8 makes the poem's WIT AMBIT SOCIETY ANTHOLOGY
